ACTION TAKEN REPORT ON FEEDBACKS

After the IQAC reviewed the feedback reports, the principal took the appropriate measures. Feedback came from alumni, employers, teachers, and students. We received 167 responses from students in various departments to 15 questions about the design and structure of the syllabus, college infrastructure, academic atmosphere and facilities, departmental efficiency and accessibility, co-curricular opportunities, the process for promptly resolving grievances, mentoring students, and issues of student advancement. Upon doing a five-point rating analysis, we discovered that the majority of the students rated the facilities as good, very good, or exceptional when expressing their overall happiness. However, almost 20% of the students expressed dissatisfaction over a range of topics, including the college's computer resources.

Discussions were held over the feedback received from employer, educators, and alumni. Regarding the curriculum and its transaction, the respondents' perspectives are divided. Overall, there is a perception that the socioeconomic background of the students and the amenities offered by the individual colleges should be considered in the syllabus and its transactions.

In order to remind everyone of the highlights and gray areas of the report, the principal displayed it during the staff meeting. It was decided that a more activity-based and student-centered approach to teaching and learning was necessary. To satisfy the needs of the students, more computers ought to be bought as soon as possible. Further determined that, whenever feasible, the members of the Board of Studies should be asked to post the summary of the feedback at the BOS meeting to make any required changes to the syllabus.
