

BEST PRACTICE-II

Reaching out to the needy: All of the members of the J. K. College, Purulia fraternity regularly participates in a variety of altruistic endeavors. Three to four blood donation camps are held annually by the college in association with the NSS, NCC, and RRC. Over the past three years, the permanent staff of the college has shown remarkable initiative by giving out new clothing to both the college's temporary employees and the impoverished residents who live nearby during Durga Puja celebrations. Food grains, necessities, sanitary napkins, and other items are yearly given to the people living in the NSS-adopted villages, and adopted sabar villages.
