ANNUAL REPORT – 2023-24

The College: A Brief Background

The district of Manbhum under Bihar, now the district of Purulia in West Bengal, was lagging behind in every sphere of society, not to talk of education. The first modern school, according to Henry Rickets, was established in Purulia in 1853 in form of an English School. Water flowed down Kangsabati for the decades. India won her freedom in 1947, and Jagannath Kishore College started its journey on 22nd July, 1948 as a private college affiliated to Patna University, thanks to the enterprising efforts of people from all walks of society in Purulia. Jaharlal Basu, Jatin Dutta, Shyam Sundar Sinha Mahapatra, Dhiren Bhattacharya, Jagadish Mukherjee, Ashok Choudhury, Manmath Kuiri and others felt it to be an abiding necessity, as the proficient students from this economically challenged area could hardly afford to pursue higher education going over to Ranchi, Hazaribag, Patna, Bankura or Calcutta. The dream of these enthusiastic people came true when Gokul Kumari Devi, the widow of Sri Jagannath Kishore Lal Singdeo of the Kashipur Raj, donated a fund of One lakh rupees for the foundation of a centre for higher education in Purulia. Shankarlal Singhanian, an eminent businessman of the time, contributed an amount of six-teen thousand rupees. A considerable amount of funds was also raised in form of public donation. The college was named after Late Jagannath Kishore Lal Singdeo, and it started with 109 students admitted to I.A. (Intermediate in Arts) standard with classes being held simultaneously in the rooms provided by Haripada Sahitya Mandir and Union Club, Purulia. Later on the classes were shifted to Purulia Zilla School for a period, and, in the meantime, the college building was started at Ketika, Purulia at a land donated partly by Sri Nilkantha Narayan Singha, the provincial Lord of Nowagarh who provided 27 bighas, and partly at the adjacent land of 7.5 bighas donated by Shashadhar Choudhury and his co-sharers.

The college functioned as a private college till it was recognized by the then Government of Bihar as a Govt. aided institution in 1951. The foundation stone for the present Arts Building of the main campus was laid by Sri Krishna Singh, the then Chief Minister of Bihar on 9th September, 1952, and the inauguration of this building was officiated by Sri Anugraha Narayan Singh, the then Finance Minister of Bihar, on 10th October, 1953.

The district of Purulia emerged on 1st November, 1956 after Bengal annexation, and the college came under Calcutta University. J. K. College was affiliated to The University of Burdwan in 1961, and in 1963 the college was taken over as a sponsored college by the Government of West Bengal. No less significant is the fact that J. K. College came under newly established Sidho-Kanho-Birsha University, Purulia from 2010. The campus office of this new University was J. K. College, and the building of the University is built at a site at Ranchi road, on a land of some approximately 40 bighas donated by J. K. College to the authorities of Sidho-Kanho-Birsha University, Purulia for this noble project in the year 2011. This is how J. K. College passed through sunshine and shower for 74 years to be now recognized as the premier institution in higher education not only in Purulia, but one of the best in West Bengal. The college was accredited by NAAC in 2005, 2014 and in 2020.

guard. Administrative Building, Teachers' Common Room, Recreation Room, Guest House, Non-teaching Common Room, Students' Common Room for both Boys and Girls, Students' Cheap Store, Canteen, Yoga & Meditation Room, well equipped Gym for both boys and girls, Students' Wellness Centre, J. K. College campus is ideal for a budding mind to develop naturally. Aims and Objectives:

The logo of Jagannath Kishore College, Purulia, West Bengal is 'Shraddhaban Lavate Gnyanam' (শ্রদ্ধাবান লভতে জ্ঞানম) meaning 'those who are full of respect and humanity can alone achieve true wisdom'. We believe in quality, and we emphasize the importance of value-based education with an aim of enabling our students not just to become competitive in a worldly way, but also to make them responsive to and responsible enough for this globalised world. Our institutional mission is not merely to provide cloistered knowledge within the four walls, but to produce efficient and sensible citizens of the future who can adapt and acclimatize themselves to the constantly changing social realities.

We are happy with what we achieved, but there is no scope for complacency. We strive with the insatiable spirit of Ulysses for knowledge not yet acquired, and vistas not yet opened. GENDER SENSITIZATION ACTION PLAN, J. K. COLLEGE, PURULIA

The college has consistently been proactive in taking measures to prevent any form of gender discrimination, addressing gender equity issues with careful consideration. To further this goal, the college established both the Gender Equity Cell and the Cell for the Prevention of Gender-Based Harassment or Discrimination. These committees regularly meet and conduct various initiatives to raise awareness among both faculty and students. Common gender stereotypes (e.g., "Men are better at leadership" or "Women are more emotional") are debated and debunked. Students are assigned roles opposite to their gender identity and made to debate topics like workplace equality, domestic roles, or leadership to help them understand different perspectives. Examples of biased language are also provided, and students rephrased them in a more inclusive manner. During the induction meetings of various departments various aspects of gender equality and gender equity are discussed in detail. Alumni from diverse fields also share experiences on overcoming gender-related challenges. Professionals from different fields are also invited to make the students cum members of staff think seriously about various components of gender equality.

Students' Council

By state government decree, student elections have been prohibited at all UG colleges in West Bengal since 2017. Nonetheless, students are selected on the basis of their merit, regularity and ability each year to promote better cohesion, student participation in administrative, academic, and extracurricular activities, and the smooth operation of the college. These students consists of students nominated generally from the fifth semesters of UG and second semester of PG curriculum, as well as some nominated from NSS and NCC volunteers. They are members of several committees such as the Cultural, Science Club, Games and Sports, and Magazine. The requests made by the student representatives mainly cover teaching-learning, library facility, employment, freeship, a book bank for underprivileged students, and issues related to games and sports, and cultural events. These students actively contribute to upholding and encouraging discipline, fraternity, and harmony on campus. It offers complete cooperation in carrying out different conferences, workshops, and webinars in addition to extension activities both inside and outside the college. These students extend their full cooperation to organize programs like Freshers' Welcome, Farewell Ceremonies, Blood Donation camp, Teachers' Day celebration, Annual Social Function, Annual Exhibition, Saraswati Puja, Publication of different departmental magazines and other college events. The students always operate under the direction of and consultation with the Principal and departmental teachers.

Our Best Practices

1. Career-Oriented Learning & Industry Linkages

We established Industry Collaborations, partnered with local businesses, government offices, and NGOs to provide job-oriented trainings to around 1500 students and campus placements to 20 students. A number of Skill Development Workshops including workshops on spoken English, soft skills, digital literacy, and entrepreneurship were arranged. We also reached out to our illustrious alumni trying to establish a strong alumni network where successful former students guide and inspire current students about career pathways. Since major corporate hubs are far, we invited experts for interactive sessions on career trends and hand to hand trainings.

1. Holistic Student Support & Well-Being

We successfully organized a number of programs on Soft Skills and Personality Development, confidence-building and public speaking sessions, crucial mainly for our first-generation learners. Apart from department wise mentoring of all our students, a special cell to provide mental health and counselling support was set up to address stress, anxiety, and career confusion of our learners. A dedicated cell comprising a number of members of faculty and support staff was involved spreading financial aid and scholarships awareness to guide students on state and central government scholarships like Swami Vivekananda Merit-Cum-Means Scholarship, etc. A number of times meritorious but needy students were financially supported in medical crisis as well as for their higher studies.

Our Placement Scenario: 2023-2024

Certified that the following 20 students of our college were placed in different companies or institutions in the year 2023-2024.
