Department of History,
J. K. College, Purulia,
Date: 10th December, 2023

The outreach program (CC-306) is a part of the PG curriculum, where students are required to submit a project based on fieldwork on the area they have chosen. In total, 30 students participated in this educational program, and four teachers of the department guided them. The students were accompanied to Jadugora village for their Outreach Program. This place is located on the top of the Ajodhya hills in Purulia district of West Bengal state, the longitude and latitude of the place being 22.6560 N, 86.3529 E. It is situated within the jurisdiction of Baghmundi police station. The students of PG 3rd semester of the History department, J. K. College, Purulia, visited Jadugora village (P. S.- Baghmundi) on 10th December 2023 to get an overview of the life and culture of the Bhumija, Munda and Santal community.

With the assistance of the teachers, students collected useful information and data regarding the social, economic, political and cultural life of the Bhumija tribal community through verbal interaction and ethnographic study. Finally, on the basis of accumulated data, the students submitted their dissertations to the
